

2020 Election Resource Center

As a Washington, DC institution operating at the intersection of law, government, business, and innovation, Wiley is uniquely positioned to help clients navigate the uncertainties that any U.S. election can bring, with changes in Congress and the Executive branch. Drawing on our legal, regulatory, and policy capabilities, combined with our interdisciplinary depth and unparalleled mastery of the nation's capital, we help companies, associations, and startups anticipate and respond to the far-reaching implications of every election cycle.
