David focuses his practice on intellectual property litigation and transactions involving trademarks, copyrights, and domain names. A former software and web developer, he regularly handles cutting-edge disputes involving law and technology.

David has developed particular expertise helping businesses navigate Internet, software, and anti-counterfeiting issues, and assists clients with the often novel application of intellectual property claims to business and product impersonations, cyber-based scams, intangible thefts, social media issues, and other Internet and software based disputes. He is the author of Bloomberg BNA's Guide to the Anticybersquatting Consumer Protection Act and has represented clients dozens of cybersquatting lawsuits – with hundreds of domain names, websites, and digital assets at issue.

David was named "Trailblazer" by The National Law Journal for intellectual property litigation, one of DC's "Super Lawyers" (2016-2022) and "Rising Stars" (2013-2015) for Intellectual Property Litigation by Super Lawyers magazine, and a "Leading Practitioner" in Information Technology Law (2016-2017) by Who's Who Legal: Telecommunications Media & Technology. He received the 2016 "Lonnie Borck Memorial Award" from the Internet Commerce Association for pro bono intellectual property litigation, and The Legal 500 US 2012 recognized him for his practice "relating to online and emerging technology."
